

Burnham's 'new' cabinet packed with friends of genocide

New Prime Minister Andy Burnham's first speech as Labour leader claimed that he represents the biggest change in UK politics in 40 years. But his 'new' cabinet is a regurgitation of the same Labour Friends of Israel (LFI) Genocide and the so-called, ultra-Zionist 'Jewish Labour Movement' (JLM) who have blighted the Labour party and UK politics for the past decade.

The media has joined in on the fiction, blaring that his reshuffle has purged the Starmeroid caucus. In reality, Burnham has just replaced a handful of them with a different handful, while many have retained their jobs or been promoted.

For example, police-state horror Shabana Mahmood staying as home secretary and slash (benefits) and burn (Palestinians and Russians) John Healey moving from defence to chancellor, so he can implement his plan.

Burnham's shop of horrors

Below is a list, which may not be exhaustive, of LFI and JLM 'members' in Burnham's 'new' team:

Andy Burnham – Prime Minister

Louise Haigh – Effectively deputy PM

John Healey – Chancellor

Ed Miliband – Foreign Secretary

Wes Streeting – Defence Secretary

Yvette Cooper – Health Secretary

Lucy Powell – Education Secretary
Jonathan Reynolds – Business Secretary
Pat McFadden – Work & Pensions Secretary
Emma Reynolds – Treasury Secretary
Chris Bryant – Northern Ireland Secretary
Douglas Alexander – Scottish Secretary
Angela Eagle – Environment Secretary
Hamish Falconer – State Minister
Mike Tapp – Home Office Minister
Matthew Pennycook – Housing Minister
Alison McGovern – Local Government Minister
Preet Gill – Health Minister
Sharon Hodgson – Health Minister
Michael Shanks – Energy Minister
Lilian Greenwood – Transport Minister
Mary Creagh – Environment Minister
Ellie Reeves – Solicitor general

Culture Secretary Lisa Nandy is also a major recipient from Israel lobby donors. Continuity friends of genocide with more northern accents.